1,288 attend eLearning Africa Conference in Ghana

APA-Accra (Ghana) More than 1,288 information technology experts, educators and education providers across Africa and the world are taking part in the on-going 3rd eLearning Africa Conference in Ghana, APA learnt here on Thursday.

About 1,500 were expected to attend the programme, which is being attended by ICT professors and experts among others, to chart a cause for internet learning in Africa to enhance socio-economic development.

The three-day meeting, which began on Wednesday and is expected to end on Friday, is aimed at sharing experiences to initiate networks that could be of mutual help to enhance the development of education in Africa.
