

RM ATTENDS eLEARNING AFRICA

The 5th international conference on ICT for development education and training Lusaka, Zambia, May 26-28

15 April 2010

RM, the international education company is exhibiting for the first time at the Africa eLearning event. The exhibition showcases the best there is in the world of ICT for education and training. RM will be showcasing its Assessment and Data Services as well as its Education Resources products and Learning Management Systems.

RM grew out of supplying research equipment to Oxford University. To this day still has links with the city as its headquarters are nearby. RM is unique in that no other company has its range of products for schools and colleges. And although RM supplies everything from furniture specifically designed for the classroom to nationwide intranets and managed services it always has learning at its soul. RM's about bringing to education the products and services that help teachers deliver those inspiring, great learning moments that pupils find memorable and engaging, and so achieve even greater learning.

Commenting on the conference, Terry Sweeney Chief Executive Officer of RM said, 'these are exciting times for us. Governments around the globe are acknowledging that education is the way to secure not only their nation's future and security but also that of its people. In an increasingly competitive environment the countries that invest in the intellectual capital of their young people will be the leaders of the future global economy. In Africa education investment is a priority for many governments. At this show we hope to find new partners to work with in the region to help them achieve their governments' ambitions to improve the life chances of school children and students'.
