

“July intake now open for online study – MBAs and UK university degrees available”

RDI is the world’s largest independent provider of UK university distance learning, and their July intake is fast approaching with students across Africa enrolling now to begin their university studies online.

RDI offer a range of programmes from HND to degree, MBA and Masters, giving students of all levels and abilities the opportunity to study at the right level for them.

Studying online with RDI gives students in Tanzania the opportunity to study a valuable and prestigious UK university qualification. Students can stay at home with their families or continue their careers in Tanzania whilst studying online through RDI.

The July intake is open for applications now, and students are advised to apply early to avoid disappointment.
